Pittsburgh Theological Seminary will host "Communal Discernment: A Marriage of Freedom and Patience" Fri., March 18 from 7:00-9:00 p.m. The Rev. Howard J. Gray, S.J., special assistant to the president, Georgetown University, Washington, DC will be the keynote speaker.

In his presentation, Gray will ask, "How many Holy Spirits are there? Can the Holy Spirit speak in one voice through many throats? How does a group listen and choose in one Spirit?"

Gray, a nationally recognized expert on Ignatian spirituality, earned his bachelor's, licentiates in both philosophy and theology from Loyola University of Chicago, and his doctorate at the University of Wisconsin. He has written extensively in spiritual theology, Ignatian spirituality and higher education, and has remained active in teaching throughout his career even while assuming a number of leadership positions within the Jesuit Order. For his work as a teacher, a thinker, a writer, and a leader, Gray has received six honorary degrees.

Fee for this event is $15 per individual and $25 for two before March 15 and $20 per individual after March 15.
