

Faculty Position in Church History

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, a graduate institution of the Presbyterian Church (USA), seeks a professor to teach Church History, including electives and all introductory church history courses in the MDiv/MA programs and responsibilities in the DMin and continuing education programs. Teaching in the cooperative PhD program with the University of Pittsburgh is a future possibility. It is preferred that this person have a focus in Modern Church History with competency in Reformation studies. However, persons with other areas of concentration are also encouraged to apply.

In addition to teaching, the professor will serve on faculty committees and contribute to the academy and the church. This person must have a commitment to the preparation of women and men for the Christian ministry, be an active participant in the life of a Christian communion, and possess the ability to work collegially in a Reformed context.

This is a tenure track position and rank is open. A PhD or its equivalent is required. Women, international candidates, and members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Send applications to Dean of Faculty, Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, 616 North Highland Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15206-2596 or email to facultysearch@pts.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.
