

Faculty Position in Urban Ministry

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, a graduate institution of the Presbyterian Church (USA) with a commitment to the ecumenical community, is seeking to fill a tenure track faculty position in Urban Ministry. Candidates should hold a theological degree and a PhD or equivalent, and demonstrate a sustained commitment to the church and to seminary education. This person will teach introductory and advanced courses in Urban Ministry, Church and Society, and related courses in other areas of personal competence in all academic programs of the Seminary (MDiv, MA, STM, and DMin). This person will also serve as a resource for the Seminary's Metro Urban Institute. Information about the Seminary and the Metro-Urban Institute is available at www.pts.edu/metrouurban.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Women and members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Address inquiries and applications (with CV including names and addresses of references) to the Office of the Dean of Faculty, Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, 616 North Highland Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15206-2596, or by email to facultysearch@pts.edu.
