Faculty Position in Missiology

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, a graduate institution of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), seeks a professor to teach missiology in all of the Seminary’s academic programs (M.Div., M.A., S.T.M., D.Min.) and in the continuing education program. Responsibilities include teaching in areas such as the theology, history, and practice of mission, church planting, and the global expression of Christianity. This person also provides programmatic oversight to the Seminary’s World Mission Initiative and Church Planting Initiative programs.

In addition to teaching, the professor will serve on faculty committees and contribute to the academy and the church. This person must have a commitment to the preparation of women and men for Christian ministry, be an active participant in the life of a Christian community, and possess the ability to work collegially in a Reformed context.

This is a tenure track position and rank is open. A Ph.D. or its equivalent is required. Experience in a variety of cultures and contexts is highly desirable. International candidates, women, and members of historically underrepresented racial and ethnic groups are especially encouraged to apply. Send application letter, CV, and letters of reference to the Dean of Faculty at facultysearch@pts.edu. Applications will be acted upon as received, beginning January 26, 2015.