PTS RECIPROCAL BORROWERS

PTS students and faculty are granted access to resources at our reciprocal borrowing partner institutions (linked below). Visitors to these institutions receive limited borrowing privileges, which are stipulated by the individual libraries. Different institutions have different procedures for receiving a reciprocal card, but it is advised that students are prepared to provide both a campus ID and a valid driver's license or state-issued ID. PTS students and faculty are also granted access to select libraries nationwide through the Atla Reciprocal Borrowing Program.

*NON-PTS RECIPROCAL BORROWERS

Barbour Library welcomes students and faculty from our reciprocal borrowing partner institutions (linked above). Visitors from these institutions can receive limited borrowing privileges at Barbour Library. Requests for borrowing privileges must be made in-person at the Circulation Desk. A driver's license or state-issued ID and a valid campus, university, or institution ID is required.

All library policies and campus rules must be followed. A reciprocal borrowing card will be issued and is to be retained and used by the specified borrower only.

See above for borrowing periods, item, and fines information.

*ATLA RECIPROCAL BORROWING PROGRAM

Barbour Library is a participant in the Atla Reciprocal Borrowing Program. This grants access for our students at participating theological schools across the country, and Barbour Library welcomes their students in turn. Read more information on the program and a list of partner institutions.
